

CELEBRATING

Women in Red

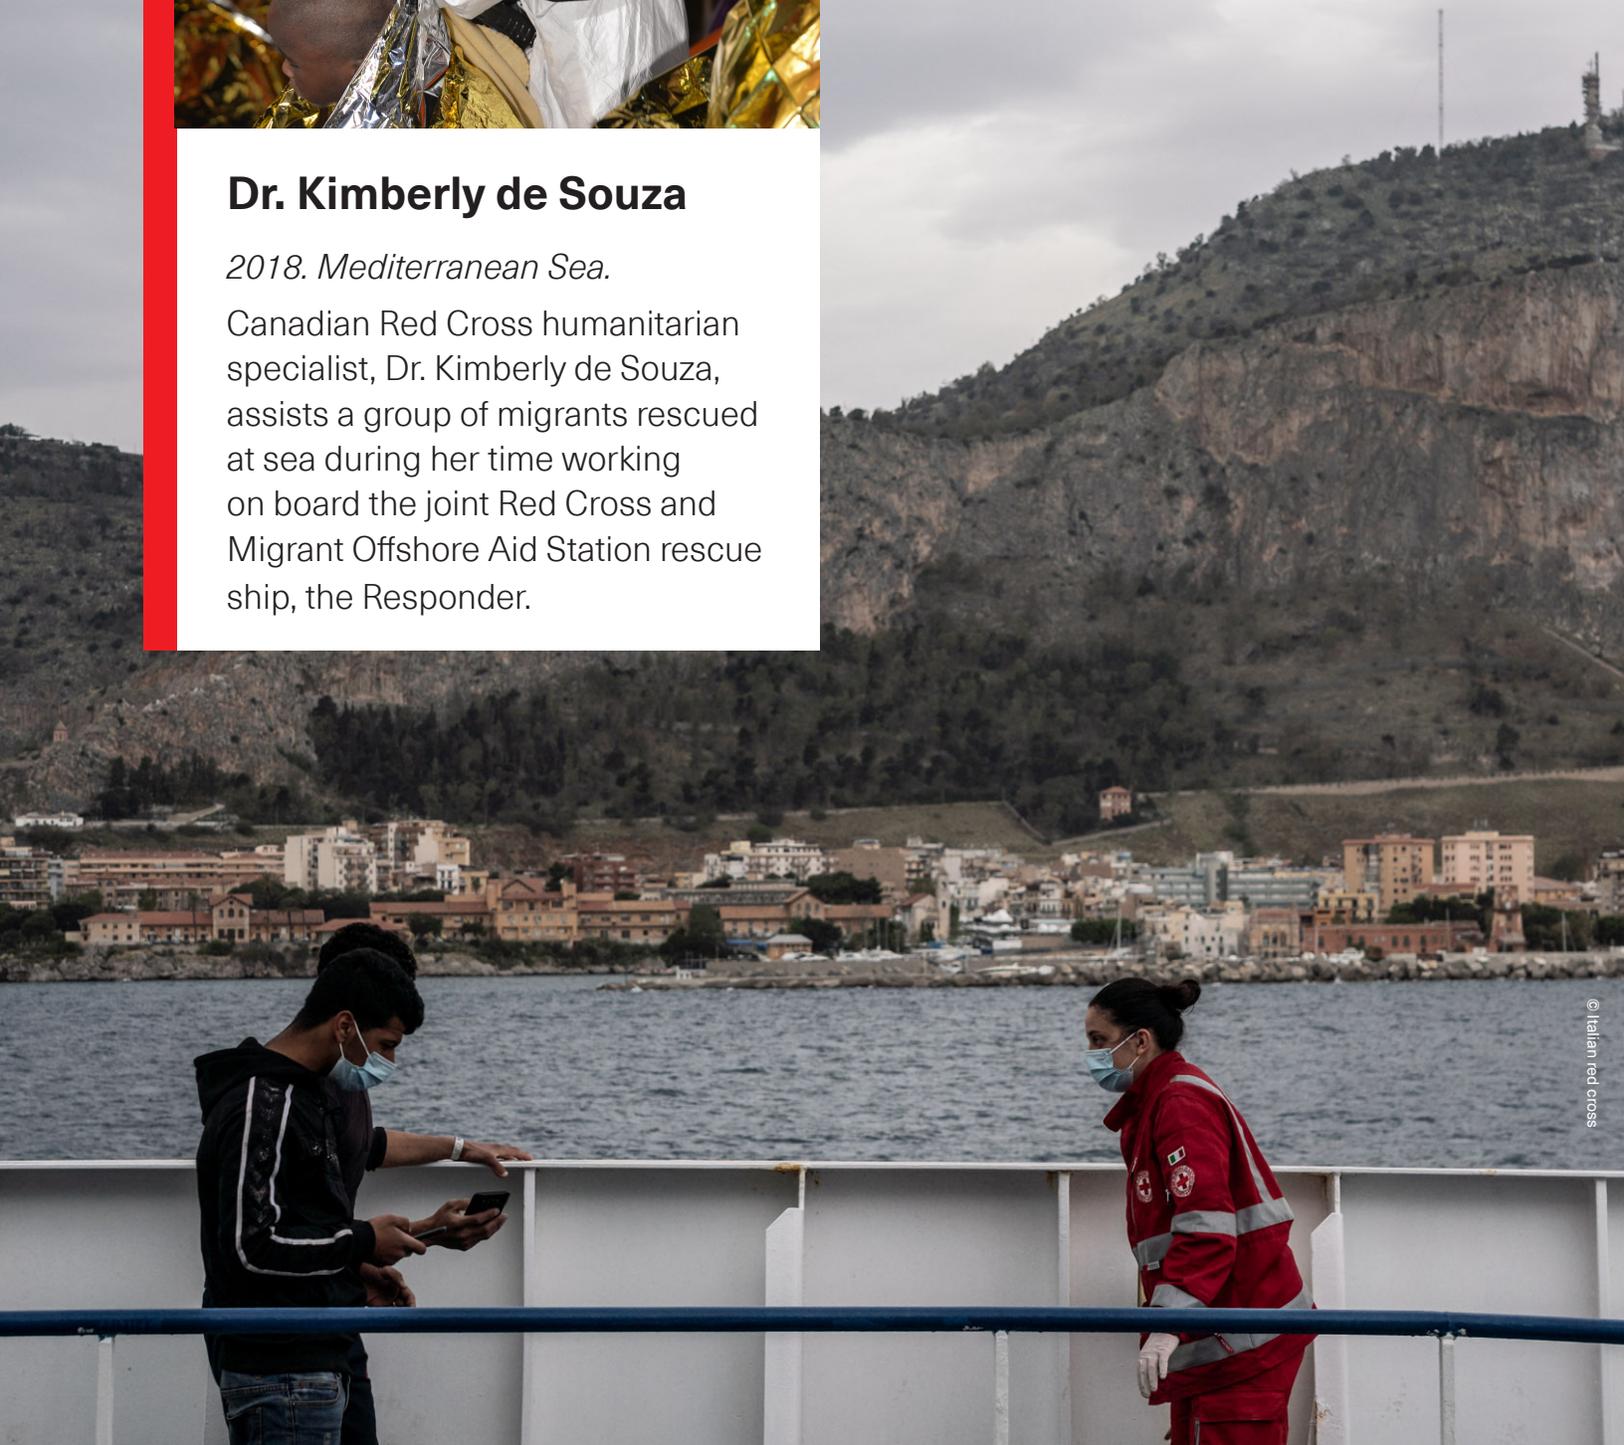

© Emiliano Albenisi / Croce Rossa Italiana

Dr. Kimberly de Souza

2018. Mediterranean Sea.

Canadian Red Cross humanitarian specialist, Dr. Kimberly de Souza, assists a group of migrants rescued at sea during her time working on board the joint Red Cross and Migrant Offshore Aid Station rescue ship, the Responder.

© Italian red cross

© Canadian Red Cross

Shelley Cardinal

2020. Victoria, B.C.

Shelley Cardinal (centre) is a member of Bigstone Cree Nation and the Director of Indigenous Relations at the Canadian Red Cross. She has worked with the Canadian Red Cross for over 20 years, mainly with Indigenous communities and focusing on creating safe environments.

© International-Africa/IFRC

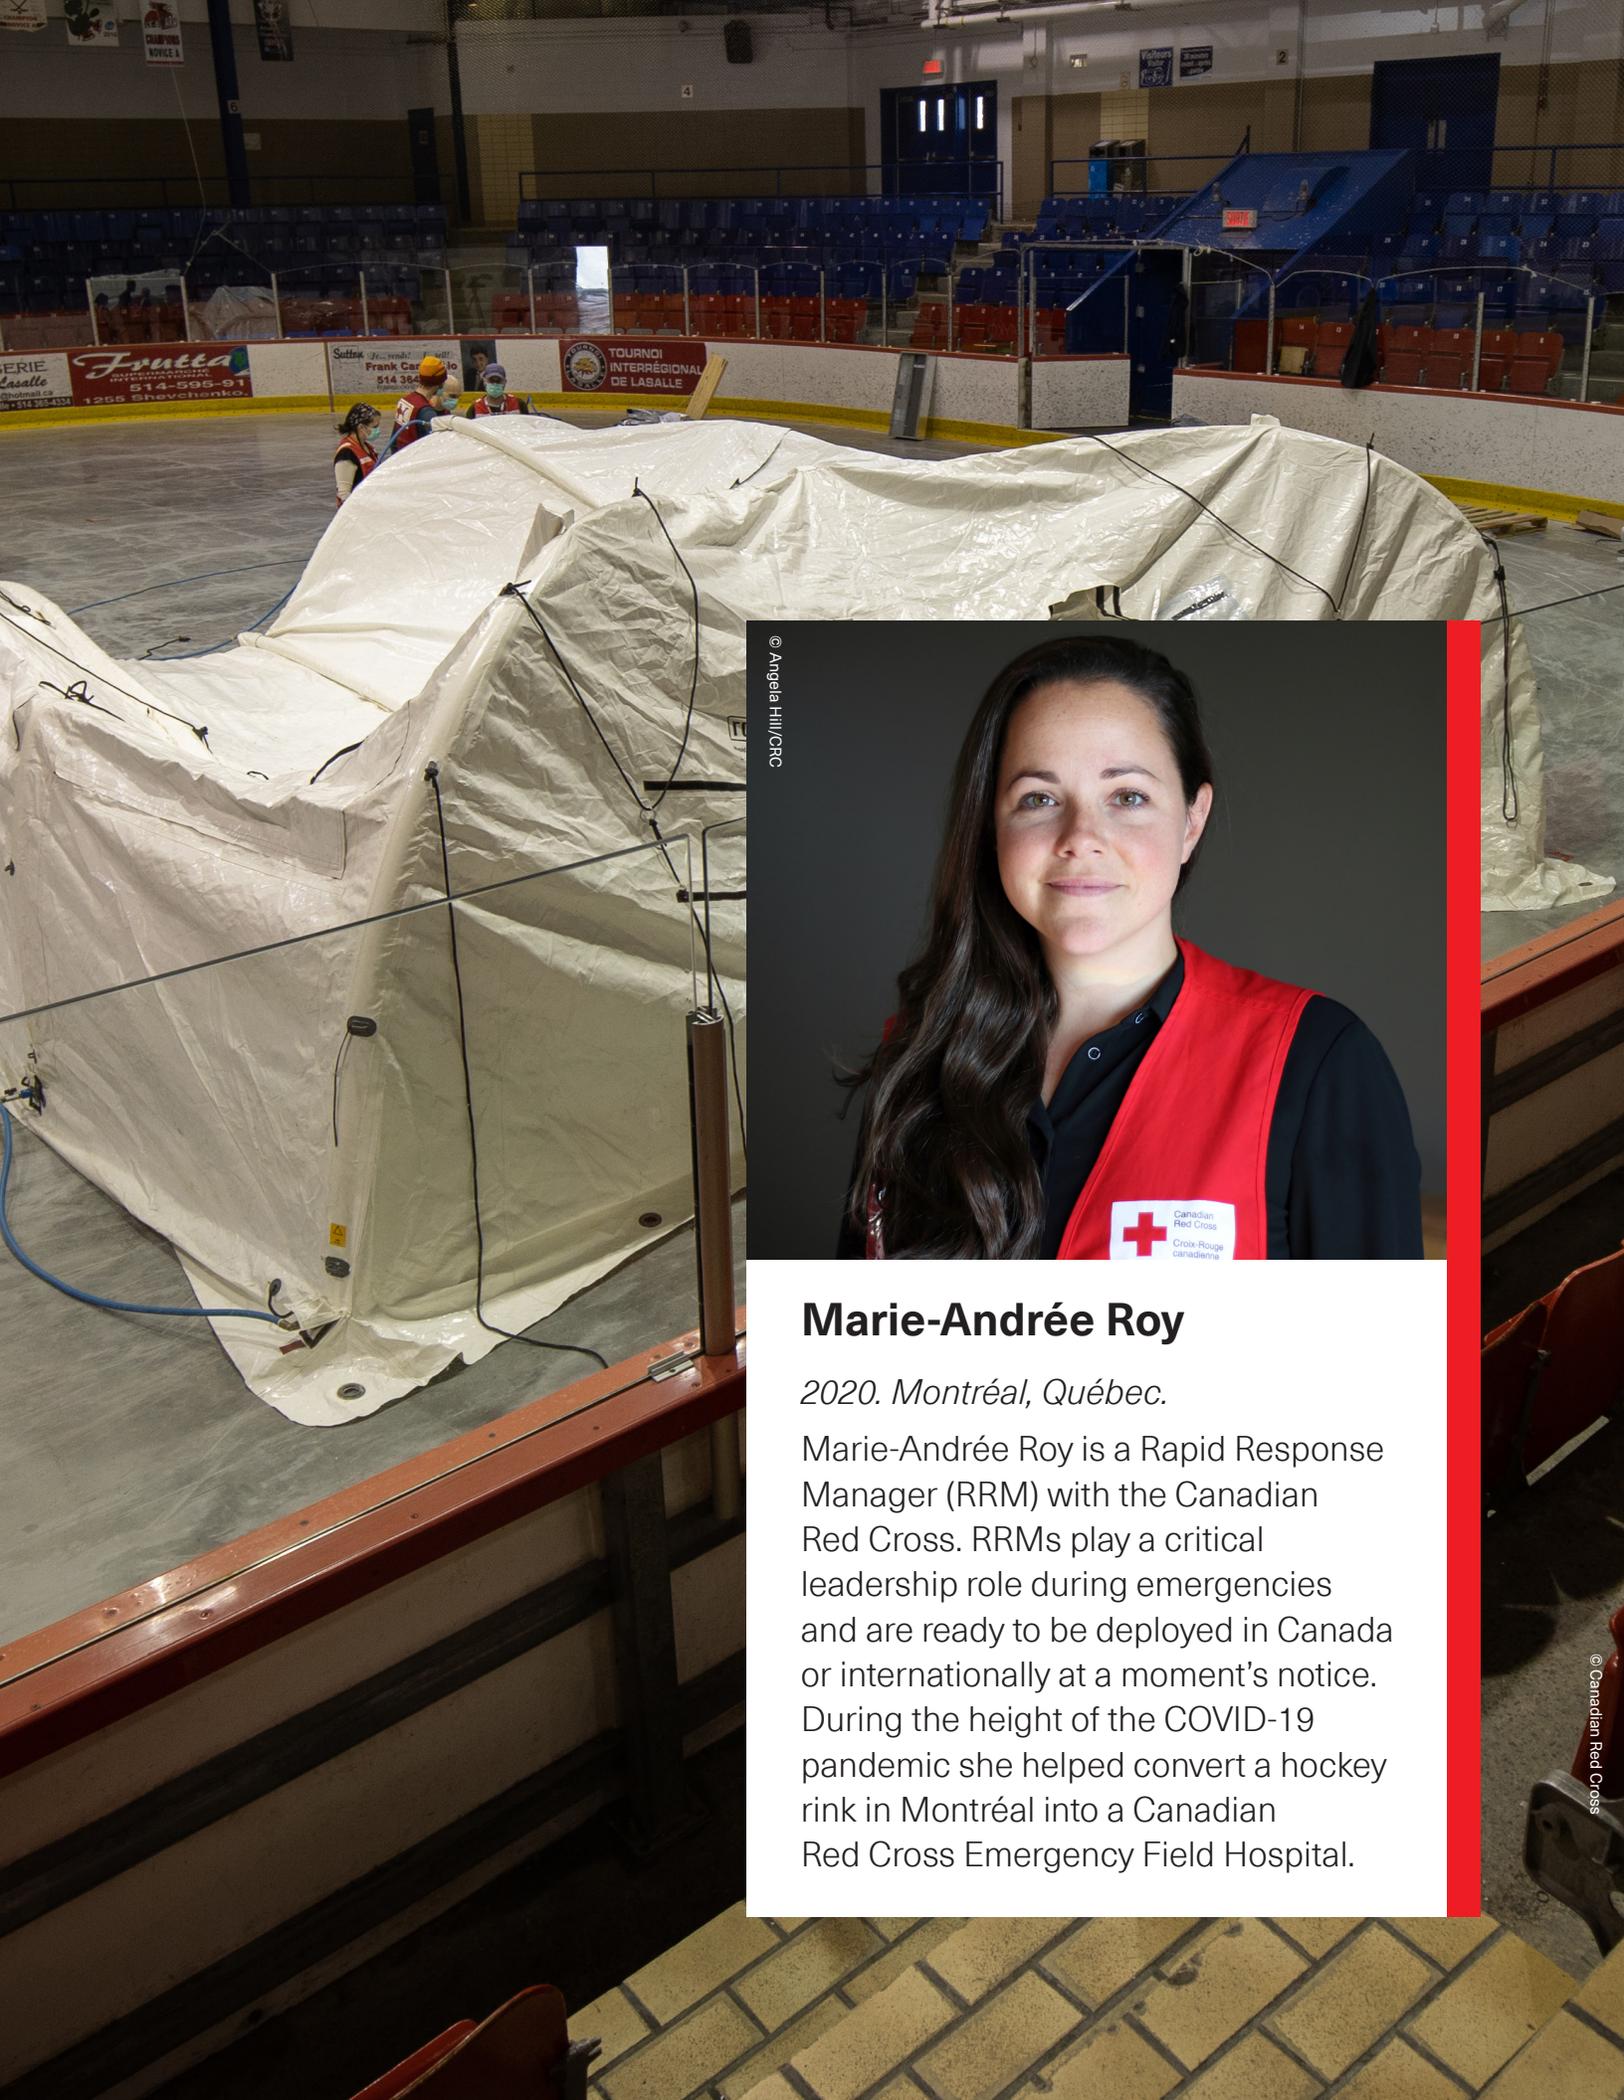

Patrice Gordon

2014. Sierra Leone.

Patrice Gordon is someone who goes towards danger rather than away from it. Patrice is a nurse practitioner from British Columbia who has deployed with the Canadian Red Cross Emergency Response Unit multiple times, from the West Africa Ebola Outbreak of 2014 to the Nepal earthquake in 2015 to the Rakhine Crisis in Bangladesh in 2017.

© International-Africa/IFRC

© Angela Hill/CRC

Marie-Andrée Roy

2020. Montréal, Québec.

Marie-Andrée Roy is a Rapid Response Manager (RRM) with the Canadian Red Cross. RRM's play a critical leadership role during emergencies and are ready to be deployed in Canada or internationally at a moment's notice. During the height of the COVID-19 pandemic she helped convert a hockey rink in Montréal into a Canadian Red Cross Emergency Field Hospital.

© Canadian Red Cross

© Angela Hill / CRC

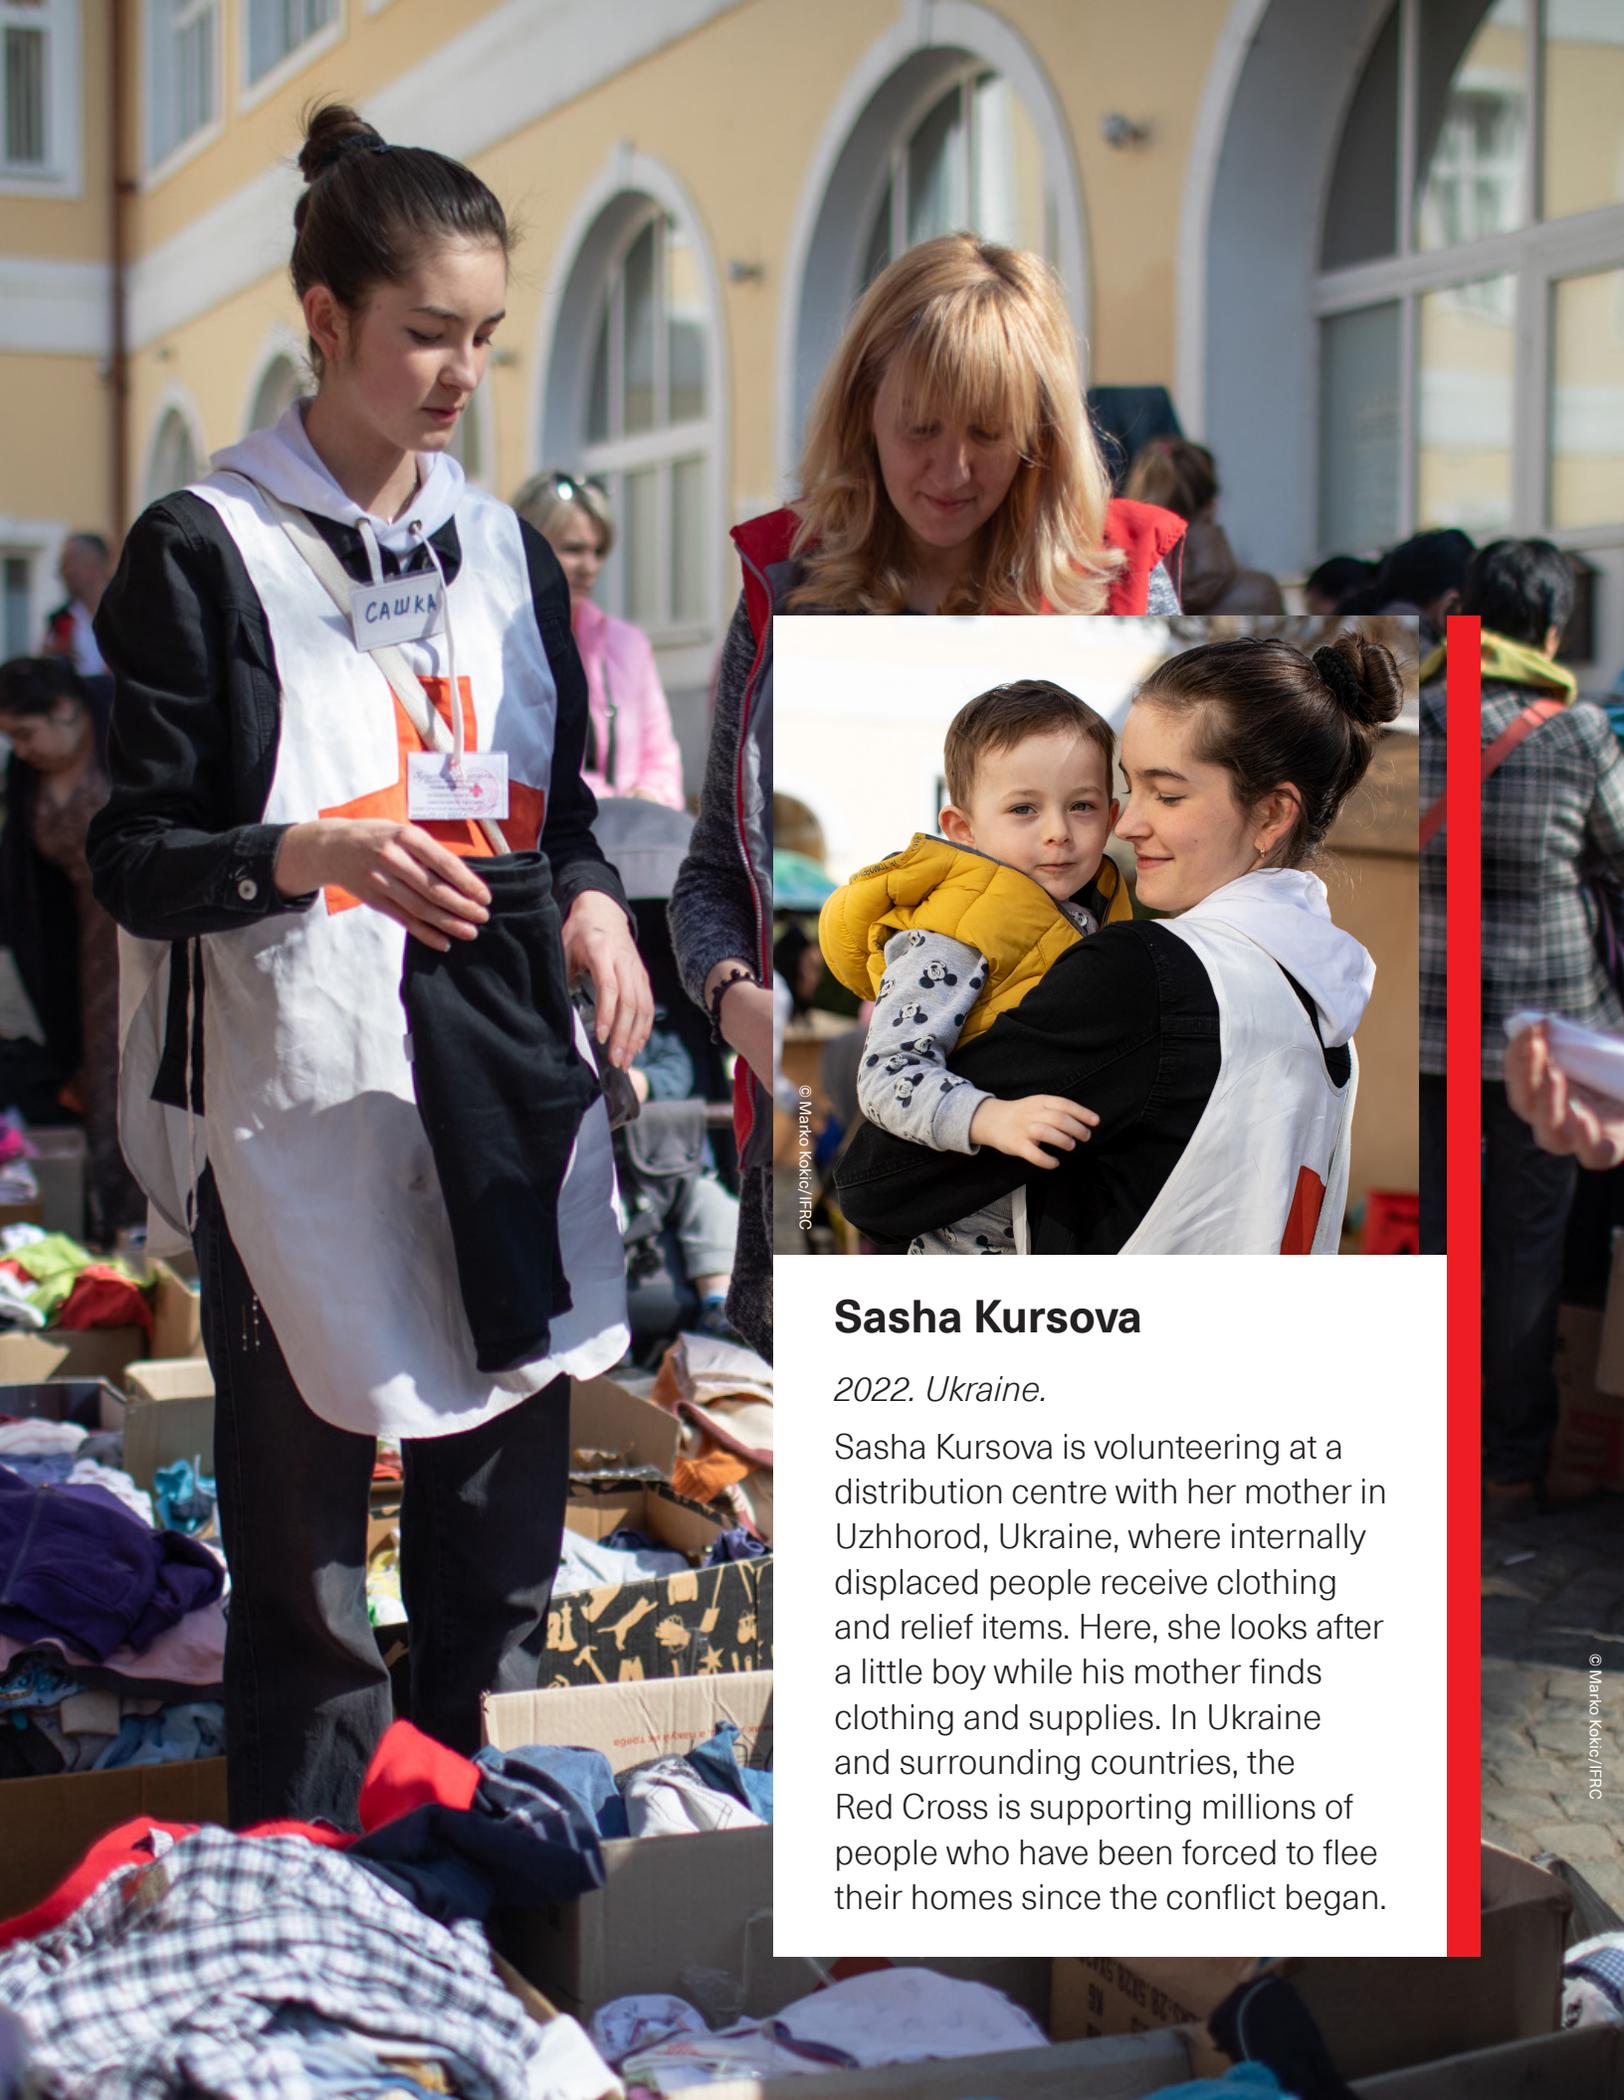

Deb Hollands-McKinnon

2021. Lytton, British Columbia

Deb Hollands-McKinnon is a Site Manager for the Canadian Red Cross, who manages reception centres and shelters during emergencies and helps those impacted. In 2021, she was deployed to the Lytton area after a devastating wildfire tore through the town. Despite much of the small village being destroyed, Deb was in awe of the residents' resilience as they worked to move forward with their lives and cope with the unimaginable loss of their homes.

© Ailsa Brennan / CRC

© Marko Kokić/IFRC

© Marko Kokić/IFRC

Sasha Kursova

2022. Ukraine.

Sasha Kursova is volunteering at a distribution centre with her mother in Uzhhorod, Ukraine, where internally displaced people receive clothing and relief items. Here, she looks after a little boy while his mother finds clothing and supplies. In Ukraine and surrounding countries, the Red Cross is supporting millions of people who have been forced to flee their homes since the conflict began.

Veronica Nyanut

2018. South Sudan.

Veronica Nyanut is a volunteer with the South Sudan Red Cross. As a health responder she provides critical health information to women and children. As part of the largest humanitarian organization in the world, the Canadian Red Cross works with our local Red Cross Red Crescent partner, so no matter where, we have local knowledge and access.

© Michelle-Andrea Girouard / CRC

Corenna Hult

2022. Newfoundland & Labrador.

Corenna Hult is a Mental Health & Psychosocial Support Advisor with the Canadian Red Cross. After an emergency, the toll on mental wellbeing can be just as devastating as physical wellbeing. When Hurricane Fiona struck Atlantic Canada, Corenna was deployed to hard-hit communities to provide integral mental health support.

© Michelle-Andrea Girouard / CRC