

Alberta Fires

ONE MONTH DONOR UPDATE

In early May, a wildfire tore through Fort McMurray, Alberta and its surrounding areas, destroying neighbourhoods and threatening the entire region. More than 80,000 people fled through smoke and fire to reach safety. In the largest wildfire evacuation in the province's history, many residents left with almost nothing. Some had nowhere to go.

With your generous support, evacuated people are receiving vital help as they overcome this disaster. Thank you for standing beside them during this difficult and uncertain time.

NEVER BEFORE HAVE WE WITNESSED A MOMENT QUITE LIKE THIS.

We have all been incredibly saddened by the loss, the upheaval and the stress that the Fort McMurray fire has caused to so many. But this horrific event has proven, once again, that people in our country are never left alone when facing a tragedy such as this.

Over the past month, we have seen an unprecedented show of solidarity—from people young and old, community and school groups, governments, and companies large and small.

Coming from every corner of our nation and from countries around the world, the flow of compassion and generosity into Alberta has been truly remarkable. And because of it, those impacted by devastating disaster are receiving the help they desperately need.

Since the moment people were forced from their homes, your support has enabled us to mobilize more than 1,600 staff and volunteers to reach out with a helping hand. From registering tens of thousands of evacuated people, to ensuring their immediate needs are met, to easing their financial and emotional stresses, you have made an extraordinary difference.

One month on, Fort McMurray residents are now returning to their community. We know the road ahead will be long and challenging. Thousands have seen their lives completely turned upside down by this disaster. Many have lost everything.

Together, we will support the people of Fort McMurray through this difficult time — with your generosity helping at every step of the way.

Thank you deeply for your solidarity, your donation, and your trust.

THANK YOU!

In the past weeks, we have received countless messages of gratitude, each reflecting just how much your generosity has meant during this difficult time. With your support, the Canadian Red Cross will stand by these individuals and families in the weeks, months and years ahead as they rebuild their lives and their communities. Thank you for showing solidarity and generosity when it was so desperately needed.

Messages from Fort McMurray evacuees after they received emergency funds thanks to you:

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

We are overwhelmed by the outpouring of generosity, support and love to our community of Fort McMurray.

Thank you very much for your generosity.

The pain we feel every time we are reminded of the devastating wildfire is being lessened due to the kind-hearted individuals and organizations that are extending their loving arms to us.

I just wanted to thank the Red Cross and everyone who was involved in supporting the people affected by the wildfire. This money will allow me to get some much needed clothing and food.
